Strike Ties Up Work On Four U.S. Warships

Shipbuilding Company Confers With CIO Union Again In Effort To End Wage Dispute.

(By United Press)

KEARNY, N. J.—Company and union officials confer again today in an attempt to settle the strike of 5,000 employes of the Federal Shipbuilding and Dry Dock company, which has tied up work on two navy cruisers and two destroyers.

The strikers are members of Local 16 of the Industrial Union of Maritime and Shipbuilding Workers of America (CIO). The union demands 10 cents an hour wage increase, a week's vacation with pay, adjustments in working conditions and a union shop when its contract, which expired last Wednesday, is renewed.

Under the old contract the men received from 62½ cents to $1 an hour. The company has offered to increase wages from two and one-half to four cents an hour.

John Green, national president of the union, said the company in yesterday's negotiations refused flatly to consider the salient points in the dispute.

L. H. Korndorff, president of the company, issued a statement expressing astonishment that the strike had been called.

He said that last Wednesday a complete new agreement embodying certain adjustments in wage rates had been reached with the union negotiating committee and that the agreement had been accepted by both sides.

DEFENSE SNAGS ON GUARD CALL

Congressmen Attack Request as Mobilization Move By President.

(By United Press)

WASHINGTON — The administration's national defense program ran into rough weather in congress today over President Roosevelt's request for authority to call the national guard and other reserves for active military duty. It had been sailing smoothly toward the unprecedented mark of $5,000,000,000.

War department officials said there was no intention to make use of the authority at this time, and that they, in fact, were "pressing arrangements to avoid such a necessity." Nevertheless, congressional opposition developed on grounds that it would create fear and upset efforts to stabilize employment.

Sen. Arthur H. Vandenberg, R., Mich., said the proposal was "shocking" and "sounds like a partial mobilization."

"If we are that close to an emergency," he added, "congress

AT A SOUTHEAST ENGLISH PORT — (U.P.) — German forces attacking without regard for terrible losses were reported by British expeditionary force survivors today to have penetrated the main Allied defense line protecting Dunkirk.

BULLETIN

LONDON—(AP)—The war office announced today that General Lord Gort, commander in chief of the British expeditionary force, has returned to England.

(By Associated Press)

A SOUTHEAST COAST PORT IN ENGLAND—Britons today claimed the biggest rescue in military history as it was estimated unofficially that between 75 and 80 per cent of the British expeditionary force had been pulled out of the Nazi-laid death trap in Flanders.

Since the strength of the B. E. F. sent into Belgium at the outbreak of wide-open war in the west was placed at 175,000 men, this meant that 130,000 to 140,000 Tommies had been brought to the safety of English shores by a mighty armada of warships, merchantmen, fishing boats, yachts, barges and other craft of all sizes and description.

Though it was announced definite figures could not be released as yet, informed sources reported a tremendous increase in the numbers of homecoming troops within the last 24 hours.

When King Leopold III ordered the surrender of the Belgian army last Tuesday and thus laid open the Allied left flank, the B. E. F. appeared to be faced with the al-

FRANCE CAGY

Refuses to Sign Agreements Reached With Italy.

PARIS —(AP)— France has decided not to approve commercial and economic accords with Italy that awaited only signature, it was announced today at the foreign office.

The decision not to proceed with the accords was made as the immediate aftermath of a rupture in economic and contraband control negotiations between Great Britain and Italy, authorized spokesmen said.

The accords involved are mostly renewals of previous commitments. Negotiations had been completed, it was said, and signatures would have been affixed in a matter of days.

French, British Escape Flanders 'Death Trap'

Dirty, weary and many of them wounded, British and French soldiers are shown in these two pictures as they arrived in England, after what has been called one of the most brilliant military escapes in history. Top picture shows a contingent of French troops. British Tommies are shown at the bottom. Allied warships and transports evacuated men across the channel despite intense German air attacks.

Americans Fleeing War Zone Crowd Liners Bound for Home

(By Associated Press)

GALWAY, Ireland — The first groups of more than 1,200 homeward-bound Americans today began boarding the U. S. Liner President Roosevelt, newly arrived to take them out of the dangers of war.

Officials speeded embarkation so that the Roosevelt could start the return trip to the United States this afternoon.

Long before the American ship arrived at 10 o'clock last night (4 p. m. EST Friday), prospective passengers jammed this west coast Irish fishing port in response to consular appeals for Americans to leave the danger zone.

(Americans in Italy also hastened preparations to sail for home from Genoa this week-end aboard the U. S. Liners Manhattan and President Harrison. Officials tried to accommodate 2,000 passengers on the Manhattan, which ordinarily carries 800.)

As special trains from Dublin swelled the crowds, delighting towns-people who gave up their regular Friday half-holiday to hawk their wares to the visitors, it became apparent that the refugee ship sent at President Roosevelt's request would have to carry more passengers than anticipated

The liner had extra berth accommodations ready and cots were placed in the public rooms.

More trains were due before sailing time, bringing film notables, wives of diplomats, business men, teachers and children by the scores.

Informed that they could take only £20 (about $64) out of England, many Americans spent their surplus on Galway's stocks of famed linens and laces.

Eight Battery D Officers Taking Part In Mock War

Headed by Capt. R. J. Nichols eight officers from Battery D, Mansfield unit of the Ohio National Guard, are at New Albany, O., today participating in mimic warfare involving approximately 550 soldiers simulating a force of 100,000 men.

A mechanized "Red" army today invaded peaceful central Ohio to open the maneuvers. The principal skirmish of the two-day battle will occur when the defending "Blue" army counter-attacks the invaders.

At New Albany from Mansfield for the battle are Lieuts. Harry Snyder, Robert Uhlich, Albert Bell, Robert Springer, Dale Uhlich and Capts. Coleman Todd and Harland Critchfield. Also at New Albany are 54 men and several pieces of equipment of the Second Battalion Headquarters and Combat train of Galion.

During the maneuvers, the old "four square" battle organization with two infantry regiments in assault and two in reserve will be matched against a new formation of two regiments in attack and one in reserve.

Galion Grads Show Movies of School Life at Commencement

GALION — The 131 seniors of Galion high school who last night received their diplomas during the annual commencement exercises, not only presented the entire program, but planned it as well. They entertained a packed auditorium of relatives and friends with the most unique and novel graduation exercises ever to be presented here.

For nearly an hour the audience was entertained with a program of motion pictures, including colored scenes of senior class activities in all departments of the school. The pictures were filmed by Richard W. Horn, visual education director.

Filming of school life was started last January and a complete record of all activities since that time was presented on the screen. The picture was silent, with narration by Victor Smith, member of the graduating class.

The picture closed with the showing of the first couples in the senior processional, wearing their blue caps and gowns, marching down the auditorium isle.

Then followed the customary program which featured short discussions of education departments of the school by eight representative seniors.

An organ prelude number was played by Jean Huy, and the Na-

French Defend River Against German Thrust

Single Bridgehead Bears Battle Brunt As Poilus Hold Fast Against New Onslaught; Counter-Drive at Abbeville Launched.

(By Associated Press)

PARIS — New French positions on the south bank of the lower Somme were attacked repeatedly by the Germans today as the remnants of the Allies' retreating northern armies hastened their embarkation at Dunkerque with the aid of low-hanging rain clouds. The French said they held fast against the Nazi onslaught.

Bearing the brunt of the German assault along the Somme was a single bridgehead which the French succeeded in establishing on the north side of the river.

Lesser attacks were launched against French positions on the south side of the stream.

The Germans accompanied their assault along the Somme with an attempt to land troops by sea on the channel coast between Dunkerque and Boulogne, which they hold.

Fleets of torpedo-carrying launches were directed mostly against small harbors and fishing villages.

Masses of infantry, supported by tanks, planes and artillery were reported by military spokesmen to

INFLATION?

Oklahoma Solon Urges 'Easy Money' For Defense.

WASHINGTON — (INS) — Demands for monetary inflation to pay the mounting defense bill were raised in congress today.

Sen. Thomas (D., Okla.) leading "easy money" advocate in congress, called a meeting of farm and financial leaders favoring such a course to work out a program of cheapening the dollar.

He said half a dozen representatives of important farm groups and finance experts would attend, and would work out a program to be presented in the form of legislation.

Thomas denied the argument that a "moderate increase" in available dollars would injure the nation's economic structure. He recommended an inflation move to avert either new taxes or an increase in the statutory debt.

SURPRISE: Defiant Airplanes Fool Germans In Sky Battles

By WALLACE CARROLL
(UP Staff Correspondent)

SOMEWHERE IN ENGLAND—The "kids" of Britain's new defiant squadron of air fighters came back from the Flanders inferno with thumbs up—a sign of cheer and safety.

The Defiant fighter type planes, already officially credited with the destruction of 50 German planes this week, sailed into 80 German planes over Dunkirk and came back with their week's score nearing 60.

Day after day these planes have been playing a leading part in the battle of Flanders, sweeping over the French coast to ward off German bombers and fighters, harassing the withdrawal of the Allied troops.

I watched the Defiants and an accompanying squadron of Hurricane fighters—21 in all—disappear in the sky in the direction of Dunkirk. Seventy-five minutes later they came back, as the youthful squadron leader had promised, "in time for tea."

Over Dunkirk the 21 planes ran into the Germans, 40 Messer-

STRENGTHEN: Italy Calls Up 10,000 Non-Coms to Uniform

BULLETIN

ROME—(INS)—A Spanish military mission headed by General Conovas left Genoa today for Brenner Pass and presumably Germany.

(By Associated Press)

ROME—Italy today called up 10,000 non-commissioned officers to supplement a force of 50,000 enlisted last fall.

Simultaneously spring military maneuvers were reported under way in northern Italy, with one full army corps engaged in exercises near Florence.

These developments shared the spotlight with the passage through Italy of a Spanish military mission, headed by General Canovas, bound for Berlin.

Dispatches from Madrid told of growing insistance there that the British relinquish their hold on Gibraltar—a demand which has been made repeatedly by the Italian press.

Diplomatic sources linked the Spanish mission with these demands and speculated on what role Generalissimo Francisco Franco might play in the Italian fight to dislodge the British from Gibraltar.

Amid the persisting tension, some observers expressed belief that an announcement of Italian entrance into the war might come over the week-end. Others thought it might be delayed until Premier Mussolini and Fuehrer Hitler had served an ultimatum on France and Great Britain demanding territories.

Nothing was known as to the subjects discussed when the Italian ambassador to Germany, Dino Alfieri, conferred yesterday with Hitler at the Fuehrer's headquarters.

The report that Il Duce had refused—or had been too preoccupied—to accept a message from President Roosevelt through the United States embassy brought a denial from Ambassador William Phillips that he had asked to see the premier in recent days.

Governor Bricker Hits New Deal Domestic Failures

ASSERTS F. D. R. HIDES BEHIND DEFENSE NEED

Gives Keynote Address For Wisconsin Republican State Convention.

(By International News Service)

GREEN BAY, Wis. — Every Republican favors an adequate national defense, but the public should not forget the New Deal's domestic failures, Gov. John W. Bricker of Ohio, a Republican dark horse presidential possibility, contended today.

Addressing the Wisconsin Republican state convention last night, the Ohio governor declared that "it would be good Democratic strategy if they could keep the people of this country from talking about and thinking about the failures of the domestic program."

"One of the most adroit attempts we have ever seen," said Bricker, "came in the president's speech when he pictured enemy planes flying over America, spoke of our country's utter defenselessness and cried out for funds to build 50,000 airplanes He doesn't want New Deal failures remembered either."

Bricker said that when the question is asked, what has been accomplished by the seven billion dollars already spent for national defense, "We are told that we really have a fine little army, a great navy and an accomplished air force on hand or on order" He said that every Republican has a right to demand to know "where the billions have been squandered."

Herbert Hoover, Alf M. Landon, National Chairman John Hamilton and other Republicans who opposed the unofficial suggestion of a coalition cabinet to direct the defense program were praised by Bricker for the opposition.

"They have not only preserved the voice of the American people in the affairs of their government, but they have preserved the two-party system essential if representative government is to be continued," said the Ohio governor.

Bricker flayed the federal government for allegedly discriminating against Ohio in WPA activities and for 'Short-changing Ohio to the extent of three hundred and fifty million dollars in the last five years"

He predicted that the Buckeye state "will be more strongly Republican this fall than it has been in many years, with majorities far greater than they were last fall"

On June 3 Bricker is to speak on "Organization and Operation of Public Services" at the governor's' conference in Duluth, Minn.

HIGH SCHOOL GRADUATES HAVE BEST CHANCE IN OVERALL JOBS

(By United Press)

COLUMBUS—If you're a young fellow just leaving high school this summer, your best chances for employment are in the 'overall" job class rather than with the "white collar" workers

So the state bureau of unemployment compensation advised today. It found the best opportunity for college graduates was offered in the professional engineering fields

A report submitted to Governor Bricker by BUC Administrator Herschel C. Atkinson based on a survey of 3,000 businessmen and labor and civic leaders said that special training in skilled and semi-skilled, professional and technical occupations would be most helpful in landing a job for those graduates from 1942 to 1945

Although the BUC found that many occupations for which there is steady demand are of the "white collar" variety, it said the aggregate of "work shirt" jobs was probably greater.

Analysis of the survey will be made available to educators, businessmen, labor leaders, parents and others interested in vocational guidance and training.

The report showed that skilled trades and production operations offer the widest single field of employment opportunity for this year's high school graduates.

The BUC study showed that for high school girl graduates the opportunities are greatest in salesmanship, office work, service trades and in some kinds of factory work. For college women "the probable demand" was reported best for private secretaries, stenographers, nurses, dietitians, teachers, social workers, office clerks, saleswomen and bookkeepers.

CHIEF PRESENTS NEW BUDGET; 4 OTHERS FILED

$71,435 Budget Requested to Operate Department; Others Seek Fund Increases.

Fire Chief Charles J. Seeburger's 1941 budget request seeking $71,435 for operation of the fire department next year and including a renewed request for four additional firemen was among the five department budget requests in the hands of the city administration today.

Requests for additional funds for next year's operations were also submitted by the health department, municipal court, auditor and clerk of council.

Seeburger's request revealed an increase of $6,580 over the 1940 appropriations, which totaled $64,855. Major portion of the increase was for employing four additional firemen, a request that has been made annually for the past 10 years.

Legislation providing for the employment of the additional men is now before council. It was submitted to employ four men for a three-month period during the vacation season Under a revised working schedule firemen cannot take their vacations until extra men are employed unless part of the equipment is shelved, Seeburger has told officials.

Asks Additional Deputy.

The budget request from municipal court totaling $11,160 was $950 above the 1940 appropriation. The increase is sought to provide funds for the employment of an additional deputy

Council last month provided for employment of another clerk but set up funds for only three months Judge G E Kalbfleisch has not yet named the clerk.

Health department request totaled $20,773, an increase of approximately $600 over the funds allocated for this year's operations. Dr. Roy C Rehder, city-county health commissioner said the increase was sought for employment of an additional clerk in that department

The city auditor's request totaled $5,220 and the clerk of council $5,300.

Strange Things Happen In War --- British Shift From Democracy Is One of Them

—By JANE WILLIAMS

SOME strange and bewildering things have come out of this European war and strangest of all is the fact that Great Britain, who is bitterly resentful of the totalitarian states and the spread of totalitarian principles over Europe, has abandoned her democratic form of government to become, herself, one of the sternest of totalitarian nations.

In other words, democratic Britain is now in exactly the same category of government as Germany. When parliament passed an act early this month changing the form of government for the duration of the war, it placed in the hands of a few men the absolute "government control of everybody and everything," according to London papers, it gave a few men the power to direct all commerce, to dictate industrial production, to conscript men and property, even to destroy property if they deem it necessary; to draft labor for any purpose and at any wage, absolute control over banking and confiscation of all excess profits.

Men argue that a totalitarian state is necessary in times of war, because it cuts political red tape, and it is the only way to save the state

Which is most confusing. If democracy must be chucked out the window in times of war, because of its inefficiency, why is it so desirable in times of peace? And if totalitarianism is so necessary in cutting red tape, why was it unforgivable of Germany to accept it in her economic extremities of eight years ago?

Maybe the boys who know all the answers know this one, too. I don't. I only know that with every war individuals sacrifice something of personal liberty and rights that are never regained in full.

RECEIVED a letter from a friend in New York City this week, who stood at the curb on Broadway last Sunday and watched a parade of 11,000 men and women march by, cheering and singing It was a Victory parade, staged by New York Nazis and Bund members. They were cheering, on an American street, the victories of Adolf Hitler and the defeat and death of French and Belgium and English soldiers

Where did they get the right to parade? From Mayor Fiorella LaGuardia, the Italian-American, whom the president is considering for the head of the entire national defense and war plan setup.

The president asks all of his people "to have faith in him" in this crisis. Believe me, it will take something more than faith to swallow LaGuardia as an example of the president's good intentions—it will take faith mixed with a dash of stupidity.

HENRY FORD, admittedly a genius among the world's industrialists, says he can turn out 1,000 planes a day at one-eighth the cost the government is paying for them—if the politicians will leave him alone.

No one doubts that Mr. Ford could do just that, but if he thinks the government would permit an industrialist to make planes without advice from the college professors and the Tall Intellect boys in Washington, and at a mere eighth of what we are eager to pay for them, then Mr. Ford is just plain nuts.

Why, we have spent seven billion dollars in seven years for national defense and got nothing much for it. Look how much we can spend if we really WANT something for our money!

GERMAN propaganda being disseminated in this country through the "German Library of Information" in New York City has anything that came out of England during the World war looking like Epworth League charades

In those mild days the Allies had the Germans doing nothing more than cutting off children's hands and crucifying soldiers, which Lloyd George later said he thought was pretty clever propaganda

Fiddle-dee-dee! Listen to subheads from a tome entitled "Polish Acts of Actrocity Against The German Minority". "All Germans Must Be Butchered" . . . "Beat The Germans To Death" . . . "The Brains Were Spattered and The Eyes Were Missing" . . . "Pregnant Woman Beaten With Rifle Butt" . . . "German Civilian Disemboweled" . . . "Whole Families Murdered." . . .

Couldn't some one inform Dr. Goebbels of the German propaganda department that while this may be just dandy propaganda in his country, it is just plain silly over here?

If you have a copy of the book, don't throw it away. It would be swell reading for a spook party on Halloween.

Hollywood Speaks---

—By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD—Now that Gene Raymond is working in a movie again, it's a good time to point out the lad has won one of the toughest battles a movie personality can face.

Gene, so you've heard, is married to Jeanette MacDonald. Gene's movie career went into a slump a couple of years ago, while Jeanette—with movies, phonograph records and concert tours—kept on the fairly even course of her wide popularity. It's a situation that has broken up many a movie home. But Gene never became "Mr. MacDonald," and he reframed from grouching when gossipers hinted such a status for him.

"You can't grouch around in this business," says Gene on the set where he's winding up "Cross-Country Romance."

What Gene did instead of grouching and carrying a chip on his shoulder was to turn to music, the while awaiting the movie break he wanted. Two concert songs—"Let Me Always Sing" and "Release!"—are the published results of his musical labors, undertaken seriously after he had written and stored away a trunkful of "popular" stuff.

Gene left pictures because the last two RKO gave him were far from what he wanted to do. "She's Got Everything" was critically described as "it's got nothin'," and "Life o fthe Party" was para- "Life of the Party" was para-

"I had a $500 a week raise coming after those, and they offered me $250," says Gene. "I'd have taken it, if I'd had any hopes for better pictures. But I knew a few more like those two would mean my permanent finish, and that one year's salary would have had to last the rest of my life. I quit. Thought I'd had my chance in 'Stolen Heaven,' but the picture wasn't any good, and I was worse. So I waited, and wrote music some more. I took this one because I liked the script, and if it clicks I'll be all right. If not—" he laughs—"well, I'll wait some more, and I'll still have the music."

"Cross-Country Romance" has a good-luck cast. Leading lady is Wendy Barrie, the same who was his partner in "Love on a Bet," the light comedy which started Raymond off on a good series which concluded unhappily with "She's Got Everything." It also has Dorothea Kent, a plump, blond comedienne who is starting again after half a year's serious illness threatened to nullify the progress she made in several Universal films.

Attention Mr. Dies: One of the local ladies academically interested in the Communist movement was entertaining a visiting Russian.

"And if Communism were practiced in America," she inquired, "what would happen to us—and to our homes?"

The good Comrade looked around the living room of the actress's home and said, "Ah, it would be turned over to the workers. You and your husband would be granted the use of perhaps one room."

Whereupon the lady practically collapsed and, when revived, was reported considerably less pink.

Nazis Resume Attack In Somme River Area

French Hold Fast Against Onslaught; Report Counter-Drive Launched at Abbeville; Single Bridgehead Bears Brunt of Battle.

have taken part in the German attempts to force a crossing of the Somme.

The Germans found their way blocked by strong defenses which the French constructed during mopping up operations along this front last week.

The morning communique of the high command, describing the action, said:

"The enemy, showing the importance which it attaches to the passage of the Somme, counter-attacked in this region. This counter attack was repulsed."

The communique gave no details of the Dunkerque situation, but said French and British forces "of the land, sea and air continued a furious fight in full solidarity to resist a German push and assure evacuation."

Racing against a break in the weather, a great fleet of transports shuttled back and forth across the foggy English channel in a desperate attempt to salvage as much as possible of a force which once totaled more than 270,000 men.

While the gigantic rescue task proceeded under the guns of Allied warships, the French army of the center, supported by the second British expeditionary force now being formed in France, was reported to be mopping up the Abbeville sector at the mouth of the Somme.

The reaction around Abbeville was mentioned guardedly in official communiques, but military sources indicated the French had launched a surprise attack, led by 20-ton tanks, to capture a German bridgehead on the south side of the Somme.

Capture of the city itself, on the north side of the river, was not claimed, but the French said they had taken hundreds of prisoners and large quantities of war material.

Reports from Dunkerque indicated that the evacuation of the Allied troops in that area had continued throughout a night made hellish by the glare of gunfire and exploding bombs.

Allied anti-aircraft, however, was said to have made ineffective the attacks of German bombers which braved the adverse weather.

Lines of troops streamed into the city, reduced to a shambles by days of heavy German shelling, and were embarked on the beaches in small boats which took them out to the waiting transports. The withdrawal was described as orderly.

Germans Replace Equipment With Booty From Allies

(By Associated Press)

BERLIN—The German armies' material losses in the blitzkrieg on the western front have been fully made up by booty taken from fleeing and captured British and French troops, German sources said today.

These circles said an untold number of brand new pieces of motorized war machinery fell into Nazi hands, as well as cannon of all calibers.

The English especially were said to have fled in such disorder that they forgot to incapacitate their guns temporarily by removing the breeches.

Hundreds of thousands of rounds of rifle and machine-gun ammunition, as well as large supplies of shells—some fitting German guns—were found among what was termed "immeasurable booty."

The Germans reported they tightened their lines around Dunkerque, but that fighting still continued. The weather yesterday was said to have been somewhat better, with the Nazi air force consequently more active.

Informed circles were rather evasive on the prospects of Italy's entry into the war. They said that, while Italy's position long has been determined, it is up to Premier Mussolini to choose the right moment.

They pointed to the fact that a Fascist grand council meeting is scheduled for next Tuesday.

Keyed to high confidence by the smashing victory in Flanders, Germany marshalled her forces today for another trip-hammer blow at the Allies amid increasing rumors that Italy is about to enter the war on her side.

Everywhere the belief was apparent that the blow, when it falls, would be aimed at the heart of France, with the armies of Adolf Hitler striking from the north and the legions of Premier Mussolini from the south in a tremendous pincer movement.

Britain, it was believed, would be harassed with sporadic aerial raids and long-range artillery fire until France is cleaned up and the fuehrer is ready to turn west across the channel.

Most Germans, jubilant over the speed with which the conquest of Holland and Belgium has been accomplished, appeared to feel that France is already doomed.

German military men said that the flower of France's army has been wiped out in the Flanders pockets and that the second line troops upon which she must now depend will be inadequate to stand off the mighty Nazi war machine—especially if Italy attacks her from the south.

On the other hand, informed sources declared, Germany has employed only a third of her first line strength—perhaps 1,500,000 men—in her lightning dash through the lowlands and northern France. Vast numbers of fresh troops still are awaiting the order to strike.

Furthermore, they pointed out, Germany has absorbed some of Europe's richest industrial areas through the fighting of the last few weeks, adding to her own resources and seriously weakening those of France.

The authoritative commentary, Dienst Aus Deutschland, said that one of the most important results of the recent German successes was to deprive France of much Dutch, Belgian and British coal, leaving her access to barely 20,000,000 tons annually to fill yearly requirements of 70,000,000 tons.

"France has been struck a death blow," said the commentary.

TIFFIN—(AP)—Democrats will have no candidate for state senator from the 13th-31st district at the November election, under a ruling by the Seneca county board of elections. Ivan R. Gongwer of Upper Sandusky failed to receive a majority, and cannot be certified although his only rival for the Democratic nomination, A. Burt Ackerman of Galion, died before the May 14 primary, the board held. Gongwer received 6,379 votes and Ackerman 8,656. Gongwer may now seek a court order designating him as nominee, board members reported.

ternatives of putting up the white flag or being annihilated by an onrushing German army of some 1,000,000 men.

There has been neither surrender nor annihilation. Covering the withdrawal of the British army Hitler sought to destroy, British and French forces still are waging a furious rearguard action against the Nazis closing in on the narrowing Dunkerque corridor.

Allied naval guns and the Allied air forces are supporting the withdrawal and embarkation, proceeding under the additional cover of a low-lying fog that has hampered the operations of the numerically superior German air force.

Grimy but grinning British Tommies, still covered with the muck of battle, said their leader, General Lord Gort — "Tiger" Gort—stayed behind to direct the rearguard battle being fought to save as many as possible of their buddies and their French and Belgian Allies still stranded on the shores about Dunkerque.

French poilus fought side by side with the British to keep the Dunkerque defenses intact. Parts of a French army fighting its way from the Lille sector toward the coast—a distance of 40 miles—were reported to have reached Dunkerque.

The poilus who landed here good-naturedly accepted the B. E. F.'s name for the Dunkerque defenses—the "Corunna line," recalling Sir John Moore's exploit in saving a British army from annihilation by Napoleon's legions in the Peninsular war.

British and French alike praised the fighting qualities of the Belgian soldiers, many of whom refused to comply with the king's order to surrender. The Tommies expressed their contempt for the Belgian monarch with a joke that rapidly spread through England:

"What's the difference between Leopold and Judas?"

"Leopold didn't take the time to kiss us."

The B. E. F. officers were high in praise of their men, many of them territorials (the equivalent of U. S. national guardsmen) who had their first baptism of fire in Flanders.

They declared that mass bombing attacks have proved to have a stunning effect on troops, but to cause surprisingly few casualties; that this generation of German soldiers is not the equal of their fathers who fought in the World war, and that the German blitzkrieg depends upon a heavy infiltration of spies for a major share of its success.

Germans Say Five Transports Sunk.

(By Associated Press)

BERLIN — The German air force sank five transports and damaged three warships and ten merchantmen by bombs in attacks outside of Dunkerque harbor, the German high command announced today.

Resistance of remaining French units trapped in northeast France has been broken, the high command said, and 26,000 prisoners have been taken during the Nazi mop-up around Lille.

The Nazi airforce overcame the hazards of bad weather and sank the five transports, totaling roughly 25,000 tons, in raids on the Allied embarkations at Dunkerque, the high command reported.

"Three warships and ten merchantships were badly damaged by bomb hits," the German communique declared.

"A speedboat flotilla sank an enemy destroyer and one enemy submarine. Thereby the number of destroyers sunk by speedboats in the channel region was increased to six and submarines to two."

"One submarine torpedoed an enemy warship off Ostend (Belgium)."

German assault on the remainder of the British Expeditionary Force fighting for its life in the Dunkerque area were reported proceeding "favorably."

Allied tank attacks on the southern front near Abbeville "foundered"; and the high command said the Nazis gained ground in that area in a forward thrust following the Allied attempts.

Summing up the air action on the front yesterday, the Germans said 49 Allied planes were shot down, 39 in air fights and ten by anti-aircraft guns. Nine German planes are missing.

In Norway, the high command said the Narvik group held its positions in the face of strong enemy attacks.

NEW WARSHIP

35,000-Ton Battleship Slides Into Delaware River.

PHILADELPHIA — (AP) — The 35,000-ton battleship Washington, first capital ship addition to the United States fleet since 1921, was launched into the Delaware river at the Philadelphia navy yard at 10:16 a. m. (EST) today before a cheering crowd of 30,000.

Wartime restrictions blanketed the navy yard as the $65,000,000 "battle wagon" slid down the ways.

Fifteen-year-old Virginia Marshall, great-great-great granddaughter of Chief Justice John Marshall, christened the battleship in honor of her home state, Washington.

Senator Walsh (D., Mass.), chairman of the senate naval affairs committee, declared in an address to the gay throngs of spectators that the launching signalled the "beginning of a renaissance of naval preparedness" that will protect the United States from any attack.
